RSCC elects new leadership; Momentum grows

DENVER, CO: On Monday, the Executive Board of the Republican Study Committee of Colorado (RSCC) unanimously elected new leadership, including Representative Kent Lambert (R-Colorado Springs) as Chairman.

"I am encouraged by the gains that the RSCC continues to make on behalf of the traditional, common sense principles of the Republican Party. I plan to aggressively pursue these principles as the RSCC Chairman," stated Lambert.

Additionally, Representative Kevin Lundberg (R-Berthoud) was elected as Vice-Chairman, Senator Dave Schultheis (R-Colorado Springs) was elected Treasurer, Senator Ted Harvey (R-Highlands Ranch) was elected Secretary and Senator Greg Brophy (R-Wray) was elected Whip.

"Representative Lambert has been with the RSCC since it was just an idea. Kent served as the RSCC Executive Director at the group's inception, and is uniquely qualified to serve the RSCC as chairman," reflected outgoing Chairman Dave Schultheis.

"I believe that Kent Lambert has the passion, the enthusiasm and the street smarts, to continue to lead the RSCC in advancing our traditional Republican ideals. He will continue the strong tradition of leadership that Senator Schultheis set for this organization," added Senator Harvey.

Lambert is a graduate of the Air Force Academy and recently retired from the United States Air Force at the rank of Colonel. He is also a graduate of the free-market based Leadership Program of the Rockies.

Lambert is married to Gretchen (Simpich) Lambert and they have three children, Christopher, Michael, and Melissa, and three grandsons.

The RSCC is the legislative voice in Colorado for traditional Republican principles, representing over 20 State Senators and Representatives in the Colorado General Assembly.
